As you may know, Provincial Health Officer Perry Kendall released a report in February 2015 that examines legalized gambling in B.C. from a public-health perspective. The Kendall Report states:

- That from the introduction of expanded gambling in 2001 -2007, the population of severe gambling addicts in BC increased by almost 140%.
- That problem and pathological gambling among youth is 2 to 3 times higher than in the adult population.
- That, on average, problem gamblers incur more than four times the medical-related expenses than patients who are not diagnosed with this condition.
- That there has been a substantial increase in the availability of inherently riskier gambling opportunities, such as electronic gaming machines.

In light of this report, do you think pending gambling developments should be postponed so that more research can be conducted on their benefits and drawbacks?
